

Press information – for immediate release

Quick access to thousands of free available market research reports

August, 20th 2012 – ResearchFindr.com (<http://www.researchfindr.com>) offers a quick and easy access to thousands of free available market research reports, studies, surveys and statistics for more than twenty global industries. Each document can be accessed and downloaded for free. Users will also benefit from a 'Research Alert' service for free updates on new market research and insights in their special area of interest.

"Using ResearchFindr.com users will see an enormous saving of valuable time to find free market research reports compared to a time consuming search on Google", says Ralf Kaumanns, co-founder of ResearchFindr.com, "furthermore ResearchFindr.com is a great tool to get a broad overview about free available market research, market insights and surveys before buying a costly report." Required information and data can be found via a powerful on-site search engine or via an easy-to-use filter search approach. All indexed reports can be downloaded directly from the publisher's site. The ResearchFindr.com team uses a special tracking technology to observe hundreds of sources to identify new market research reports. All documents are reviewed and categorized before they were made available on ResearchFindr.com.

About ResearchFindr.com

ResearchFindr.com is an online service offering quick and easy access to thousands of free available market research reports, market insights, surveys and statistics in more than twenty global industries. The simple usage of the search engine and filter search as well as updates through the 'Research Alert' feature provide a significant saving of time and money with the search for market research, market insights and market forecasts. Further information can be found at: <http://www.researchfindr.com>

Contact

Ralf Kaumanns, contact [at] strategyfacts [dot] com